Review: This was a recommended book from an Orton-Gillingham training I attended. It correlates very well with my early literacy chapter of my Orton-Gillingham lessons, however, it didn't have any poems for digraphs. Perhaps the other level of this book might have the digraphs. Let's see. But for now, an excellent resource....

Description: By Babs Bell Hajdusiewicz. As in Phonics Through Poetry, 112 read-aloud poems—some by well-known childrens authors, others written specially for this book—immerse children in zesty poems that focus attention on selected language sounds. A well-considered teaching apparatus accompanies each poem: word lists using the targeted sound, a focusing talk...
